TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Six.—4 agree with your correspondent that Roman Catholics who are not in favour of an independent Firsh Republic, especially a republic attempted to be procured by force and treasonable means, should declare their opinions as a body; but, perhaps, just now, in the heat of a Cherral Election, the time is not opportune.

There is, however, another matter which they can take in hand at once—jet should have been done being age. They can take not be made against the action of those bishops and deray who are openly favouring sinn Fein, which not only promoted the rebelicts in almost east their 1918 proclamation boasted) with a secret society, the Irish Republican Revoluctions secret, society, the Irish Republican Revoluctional secret, as the contract of the contr over to Germany for punishment, and hat Germany's action in this case would a test of her respect for justice. An obvious difficulty in the way of this course, however, is the political confusion which prevails in Germany. The Berlin Govern Governments is to demand the surrender of the ex-Kaiser to stand his trial for his offence against international law before a properly constituted international Court administering that law. No machinery either of trial or punishment in international law before has done at present exists. This is, however, clearly a case where, if no precedents exist, precedents must be made. That the nations as a whole should set up a solemn Court to bring the Kaiser to justice and award the punishment of his suilt is not a matter merely of exacting vengeance. It is a matter which strikes at the very root of the question of the new world-order which the Allies hope to introduce. For more than four years they have upheld the ideal of law against the German doctrine that might is right; their purpose is to use their victory to introduce into international affairs a code of law that the content and the property of the collections amounted to £4.728 & 9d., at the collections are central Office to £270 13s. 44.

WALPOLES ROYAL AMININ "Peace on earth—

Goodwill towards men'

Yes! After more than four years of war that jolly timehonoured custom of wishing one another the Compliments of the Season, of emphasising one's wishes with acceptable gifts, will more than ever come into its own. People are glad, there's a relief, and one feels as Dickens felt that "it is a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time."

And so there will be a greater amount of gift giving than ever before, a desire to fittingly commemorate this great Christmas of Peace.
